A Community of Committed Christians

From Lay Director Sally Zuccaro W58

Our Cum Christo community is blessed with so many committed Christians—individuals who give freely of their time, talent and treasure.

Among them are volunteers for Secretariat and leaders schools, the governing body of Cum Christo. But there are so many others:

- ✓ Those who helped renovate the kitchen, who are now working on air conditioning.
- ✓ The man who checks the furnace weekly.
- ✓ The woman who washes the curtains.
- ✓ People who pick up the mail.

These are all tasks that need doing. And then there are the many volunteer activities for each men's and women's weekend. Someone takes responsibility for assuring there are adequate supplies; another person processes applications; one couple orders the food and makes sure volunteers staff the kitchen to cook and serve the meals.

Think about commitment by those who provide the music every Wednesday night and throughout the weekend fiestas, serenades and closings.

Volunteers step forward to handle the important details of each weekend, including the closing. Others are involved in Post Cum Christo, who plan the Ultreyas and al special events.

The Pre Cum Christo team keeps in touch with all the churches and attends meetings to stay aware of the various events at each church.

And there are those who log countless hours to keep us informed—such as those who work on our website (<http://cumchristo.org/>) and this newsletter. Let's not forget the company that does our printing—a special gift we receive on a regular basis. Also among our committed Christians are individuals who:

- ✓ Keep our database current.
- ✓ Answers messages left for Cum Christo.
- ✓ Post and track contributions to the Sustaining Fund
- ✓ Takes leftover food to homeless shelter from the weekend.
- ✓ Coordinate palanca during each of the weekends.
- ✓ Prepare nametags for weekend participants.
- ✓ Schedule the photographer.
- ✓ Works on new music books.
- ✓ Have picnics at their homes

Our treasurer spends much of his free time working to keep us on solid financial footing.

Attention to detail seems to be the strength of our volunteers. For example, we have a group who makes the heart shaped cookies for the weekends. Someone arranges transportation to the church for the closing.

And, of course, no successful weekend would be possible without efforts by sponsors and those on the prayer vigil list as well as the closing couple.

We also have a wonderful group of spiritual leaders who volunteer their time, talents and treasures to our movement.

Cum Christo needs and never-ending flow of committed volunteer Christians to assure the movement's continued success. As you can see, there are so many different ways to participate. And although many are already involved, there's always room for YOU.
